PHYSICAL EDUCATION CENTRE

Though the need for expanded athletic facilities at Loyola has existed for sometime, it was only three years ago that a Committee was set up to investigate in detail the possibilities of a "Physical Education Centre" on the south campus. Loyola for years had no proper gymnasium facilities, and the old Stadium built in the late 20's had outlived its usefulness.

The stress on physical fitness today for the youth of the country clearly called for the construction of a Physical Education Centre, where modern ideas of physical education could be carried out. Under the direction and leadership of the President, Very Reverend Patrick G. Malone, S.J., the project took shape.

Loyola's Physical Education Centre includes the main lobby; a 1500-capacity hockey arena; a 1000-capacity multi-purpose gymnasium; extensive dressing room facilities for Varsity, Junior Varsity and Intramural athletic teams in all major sports, for both men and women; athletic offices; a lecture hall; weight-training and exercise rooms; a concessionaire and sports shop, modern scoreboards and a press box; and football and soccer fields adjoining the building.
